

A True Learning Journey

A Student Shares Tips & Views on Learning English

Rounds – Wah Yan College, Kowloon

"[Other English education programs] are always the same. Everyday you do tasks and you answer questions but they do not promote critical thinking. English Builder helps us develop critical thinking through setting us tricky questions as well as inference and thematic questions. You actually learn from the material you read."

- Jason Cheng

Jason Cheng of Wah Yan College (Kowloon) has improved his English speaking skills with the help of the English Builder programme. He has completed 100% of the lessons and received an average score of 99%. He also discusses the benefits of the learning materials by using them everyday.

Enjoyment

Instead of being forced to learn English, students should learn to enjoy the education they are receiving. English Builder lessons draws from interesting subjects that are relevant to everyday life, and reinforces useful expressions. Jason said there were many other English education programmes that were not as colourful or as interesting as English Builder.

Get Higher Scores – Some Tips

In face of challenging questions, it pays to read again the relevant parts of the passage. If a word is hard to pronounce, repeat it aloud until you get it right. A student's ultimate goal is not so much to achieve a high score but build a sturdy language foundation to serve the needs of further studies and career.
